DOCTORAL STUDIES IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC

Higher Education Act (Section 47)

"...studies within the framework of Doctoral degree programmes are subject to individual curricula under the guidance of a supervisor..."

"...the thesis must contain original as well as published results or results accepted for publication..."

SUPPORT FOR PUBLICATION PRACTICE: PRELIMINARY STUDY (2017-18)

Problem:
No publication → No defence → High drop-out rates

Goal: learn about the institutional policies and support for academic writing for doctoral students

Semi-structured interviews with 12 doctoral students & 10 university administrators/dissertation supervisors from different universities

Conclusions of the preliminary study:

• Generally, no systemic support and little perceived need of such support
• Support lies and falls with the quality and experience of the doctoral student’s supervisor
• Doctoral studies are about “self-education” under the guidance of the dissertation supervisor (generally no required core curriculum for doctoral students)

VSB-TUO’s RESPONSE

“Publish and Flourish”

• Grant awarded in 2018 by the Technological Agency of the Czech Republic
• Joint, multi-disciplinary project with the Center for Academic Writing, Czech Academy of Sciences

Needs analysis/research project: doctoral student survey + interviews with dissertation supervisors at VSB-TUO

Modular, blended-learning (Moodle-based) courses for PhD students on academic writing and publication practice; engagement of the library (modules on RQs, citations managers, LATEX etc.)

Teachers’ guide explaining the philosophy of the courses, types of desired feedback, course activities and answer keys.

Project introduction/workshops for dissertation supervisors

Other ongoing activities

• “Publication Practice” - a cycle of workshops provided by the library
• Writing workshops for PhD students and faculty
